

Prophecy for the Mass of St. Philip Neri

L
 Ecti-o libri Sapi-énti-æ.

O Ptávi, et datus est mi-hi sensus: et invocávi, et venit in me spí-ritus sapi-énti-æ: et præpósu-i illam regnis et sédibus, et di-ví-ti-as ni-hil esse duxi in compara-ti-óne il-lí-us: nec comparávi il-li lápidem pre-ti-ósum:

 quóni-am omne aurum in compara-ti-óne il-lí-us, aréna est exígua, et tamquam lutum æstimábi-tur argéntum in conspéctu il-lí-us. Super sa-lútem et spéci-em di-léxi illam, et propósu-i pro luce habére illam: quóni-am inexstinguíbi-le est lumen il-lí-us. Venérunt autem mi-hi ómni-a bona pá-ri-ter cum illa, et innumerábi-lis honéstas per manus il-lí-us, et lætátus sum in ómni-bus: quóni-am antecedébat me ista sapi-énti-a, et ignorábam quóni-am horum ómni-um mater est. Quam sine ficti-óne dí-di-ci, et sine inví-di-a commú-nico, et honestátem il-lí-us non abscóndo. Infi-ní-tus enim thesáurus est homí-nibus: quo qui u-si sunt, partí-cipes facti sunt ami-cí-ti-æ De-i, propter disciplínæ dona commendá-ti.
