The Gregorian Chant Book Master List

During Holy Week, Gregorian Chant takes a particularly prominent place in the Sacred Liturgies. It is therefore a fitting time to report on the discovery of a most impressive chant resource: A Frenchman by the name of Jacques Perriere has assembled a mind-boggling web site which lists every significant chant book published from the pre-Christian era up to the present day, in chronological order of publication.

The level of detail is astounding. Have you ever wondered in what years the Liber Usualis was published with English rubrics instead of the usual Latin? Or in French? How about a Liber in modern (not square note) musical notation? Looking for a book with the Holy Week chants? The complete numbered listing of Desclee chant books [the chant equivalent of J.S. Bach BWV numbers]? It's all here.

OK, now you know a particular book actually exists, but where can you actually download it or buy it, new or used, and at what price? No problem, updated information on sources is all here.

Words cannot do this web site justice, so we present a picture of a tiny excerpt of the site below to give you an idea of the content it contains. See for yourself at: www.gregorianbooks.com

Notice anything missing? You would be doing a service by e-mailing the author to help him complete the list. We'll be notifying Mr. Perriere about a book by a certain Mr. Ozorak, for example.

1961	The Liber Usualis		1882p Desclee No. 801 Latin with introduction, titles and rubrics in English. ©1961. Imprimatur 7 Feb 1961. Dated 1961. The PDF has 2340 pages, cix(109), 1882, 100*, 14/12/10p (supplement for certain religious congregations), 77 (proper feasts kept in the dioceses of the USA), some pages are multiple (like 1476, 1476A, 1476B, ... 1476H).  This printing (as well as 1962 and 1963) had a few changes. Pages Li(51) to cix(109) replaced the 1955 additions to the introduction as "Changes in the Liber Usualis" to summarize the ritual changes of 25 July 1960. St Joseph the Workman (1st May) replaced the Solemnity of St Joseph (end of April). For this new content, pages 1437 to "1449-1451" replaced pages 1437 to 1447 (which was pages 1437 to "1447-1451" after the removal of Ss. Philip and James in 1956). In the Supplement for certain religious orders, the feast of the Eucharistic Heart of Jesus (pages 1-10 after the Blessed Virgin Mary, Mediatrix of All Graces) was omitted. In the Supplement for the United States, three antiphons for First Vespers were omitted (Fulcite me, Labores manuum, Candor est), changing the pagination and reducing it by two pages.
