August 27, 2017 - Twelfth Sunday After Pentecost

First Tridentine Mass of Fr. Joe Campbell

Another newly ordained priest will celebrate Holy Mass in the Extraordinary Form for the first time: Fr. Joe Campbell, ordained this June for the Diocese of Lansing, Michigan, will offer his first Tridentine Mass at Old St. Patrick Church in Ann Arbor on Sunday, September 10 at 12:30 PM. That means both of the two ordinands to the priesthood this year for Lansing, the other being Fr. Tony Smela, will both be celebrants of the Traditional Mass, as is the bishop who ordained them, Bishop Earl Boyea. That's an impressive statistic of support for the Extraordinary Form that few if any other dioceses can match.

Pontifical Solemn Tridentine Mass on EWTN

On Thursday, September 14 at 7:00 PM, EWTN will broadcast a Pontifical Solemn Tridentine Mass from Philadelphia's Cathedral Basilica of Ss. Peter & Paul. Chicago Auxiliary Bishop Joseph Perry will offer the Mass in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of the effective date of Summorum Pontificum.

This is the first Tridentine Mass EWTN will have aired in quite some time and is at least partially attributable to requests made via e-mail to: viewer@ewtn.com. Network executives do pay attention to the feedback they receive.

Detroit Church Blog

The Archdiocese of Detroit is blessed to have a large collection of architecturally significant churches. Founded by Andrew Fanco, the Detroit Church Blog has striven to document these churches with photos and historical narrative. Several years ago Mark Nemecek took over the blog and continues to update it with visits inside some of metro Detroit's lesser-known churches. Take a look at: detroitchurchblog.blogspot.com

VBP Chicago Conference

Interested in attending a Latin Mass conference but can't make the trip to September's Pópulus Summorum Pontíficum event in Rome? There are two options in September closer to home:

First, Chicago's young adult group Véritas, Bónitas, Púlchritas is offering a one-day event on Saturday, September 16 at the neighboring churches of St. Mary of Perpetual Help and the Benedictine Monastery of the Holy Cross, including a Pontifical High Mass at the latter. Visit www.vbpchicago.org for details and registration information.

Culmen et Fons Conference

A little further afield, in Peabody, Massachusetts, just north of Boston, the Culmen et Fons Conference on Monday-Friday, September 18-22, will bring together an impressive array of liturgical scholars, including speakers Dom Alcuin Reid, Fr. Thomas Kocik, and Fr. Neil Roy. There are separate tracks for those interested in talks about the liturgy and those interested in sacred music. Bishop Joseph Perry will celebrate a Pontifical Solemn Mass at the Faldstool. For more information visit www.culmenetfonsma2017.com

Do you love the Sacred Liturgy?
 Dom Alcuin Reid, the featured speaker, will inform clergy, seminarians, and liturgical musicians about the riches of the Sacred Liturgy. Delegates will rehearse and participate in the older form of the Roman rite, including the Missa cantata, the Missa solemnis, and the Solemn Pontifical Mass, and chanted Vespers, all conducted with reverence, dignity, and attention to the scilicet celebrandi. In addition to the communal lectures of mutual interest to both clergy and laity, those interested in liturgical music will study and sing Gregorian chant, sacred polyphony, and a 19th century choral-organ Mass.

If you are interested in becoming a sponsor of the conference or in underwriting the cost of priests or religious to attend, please contact info@culmenetfonsma2017.com for information.
