July 5, 2020 – Fifth Sunday After Pentecost

Second of Two New York Episodes of Extraordinary Faith Now Viewable on YouTube and Vimeo

Episode 20 of Extraordinary Faith – New York City Part 2 of 2 – is now available for viewing on the Extraordinary Faith channel on YouTube and Vimeo. We take a day trip out of Manhattan and visit with music director David Hughes of St. Mary Parish in Norwalk, Connecticut [exterior pictured], which has become a regional magnet with its restored traditional architecture, liturgy, and music program. We meet Dino Marcantonio, an architect who organizes special events for those interested in traditional Catholic art. A priest and author, Fr. Thomas Kocik [pictured], explains to us the liturgical concept of the Reform of the Reform. Dr. Michael Foley, a professor from Texas, tells us about some beautiful customs hidden in the Church calendar. And we pay a visit to Holy Name of Jesus Church in Brooklyn [TLM pictured], which has undergone a remarkable transformation from ugly duckling into a place of architectural beauty.

Additional Masses at St. Anthony, Temperance, MI

St. Anthony Church Temperance, in Michigan has added a weekly 7:00 PM Thursday Low Mass and a 7:00 PM First Friday Low Mass to its existing schedule, which includes a 9:00 AM First Saturday High

Mass and a weekly Sunday 12:00 Noon High Mass. Also note that a Communion Rail has been reinstalled in the church. For more information visit: www.stanthonytemperance.org

Missále Méum

A new web site has appeared, www.missalemeum.com, which presents the Traditional Mass Propers of the day, in both Latin and English. The graphic design of the site is more visually appealing than the typical site offering this service. The site automatically adjusts its display format when accessed on a mobile device. There is great value in having a resource which automatically pops up today's Propers when you go to the home page of the site.

With almost 20 years under the belt of preparing Propers Handouts for the TLM, experience leads this author to add some caveats: 1) The English translation appear to be the more modern Confraternity version rather than the traditional "thee and thou" Douay-Rheims translation found in most hand missals. 2) Almost every site offering Propers suffers from inadequate proofreading. Not having examined Missále Méum in detail yet, no comment pro or con is being made about typographical accuracy on this site. Just be aware that almost all such sites suffer from notinfrequent incomplete or error-prone Scriptural excerpts, Latin with missing accent marks or ligatures (joint vowels such as æ or œ), and mismatched English vs. Latin texts. Promising though such a new resource may be, expectations need to be realistic.
